Q: What does this perl code do? This is not a homework problem, I'm just reading through the Perl Cookbook and I've come across this piece of code and I'm not sure what it does. Use `List::MoreUtils qw(each); for (@a) { each $_, {+$_, +$a} }` What does the program do? A: I think you meant `for ($_), {+$_, +$a}` This loops through @a, and for each entry, sets `$_` to its first item, and `$a` to its

What's new:

ets Imagine being able to pop one of these chickpea “pods” in your mouth, allow it to dissolve and then jump into it’s flavorsome ingredients without having to chew/smell through them. Well with the Ginger Chickpea Packs, that’s one of the many superlatives we’ve created for our products. We love to take something ordinary (cooking, waiting, etc) and make it even more delicious and fun with added magic. Our baby chickpea packs are infused with ginger, garlic and lime oils. Not only do they make cooking and waiting more enjoyable, but they’re also super-healthy for you! Garlic not only kicks off a strong immune system in you, but ginger contains anti-inflammatory properties too! Lime is the queen of flavor for our Ginger Chickpea Packs, as it adds a little punch to the ginger. Most importantly they taste way better than dried chickpeas. The flavor of homemade garam masala/cumin brown paprika infused “chickpeas” is beyond delicious. These pre-cook mini chickpea pouches are healthy, low in sodium, low in saturated fat and contain no cholesterol, no cholesterol, no cholesterol, no cholesterol, no cholesterol, no cholesterol, no cholesterol. Try one of these mouth-watering chickpea packs during my hummus or popcorn or what ever favorite “sinners” you have. You’ll never go back to the standard dry or pre-cooked/enrobed again. Try one today and you won’t regret it. We’ve also created in other flavors for sale at the Farmers Market, CSA (Community Supported Agriculture) and via direct customer orders at Every week there’s a new flavor to add. If you’re in Portland, OR, we’re at the Portland Farmers Market (Mon-Sat 8am-12pm) and heirloom Family Foods in The Gorge (TBA). Check out and www.farmtogether.com/portland/. We also mail in inventory so you can order for delivery. Our website, www.farmtogether.com, has the ordering information for what’s available in the market and for mail-in. If you don’t see
