Terahertz transmission lines. We describe a frequency band of the electromagnetic spectrum that extends from 300 GHz to 10 THz (1000 GHz). This wide frequency range allows for new-generation transistors, and permits operation of nanometer-scale devices, such as lasers, modulators, switches, and detectors. To achieve these new-generation devices, "Metrologic" has constructed a 200 GHz and 50 cm THz transmission line for use as an antenna. This work involves (a) designing a 100-microm-thick conductive copper wire with a 25-cm resonant range 595f342e71
