Operating System: Windows XP (SP3), Windows Vista, Windows 7, Windows 8.1, Windows 10.  . Do you have ever needed to reset a printer with your computer? Most of the time you will not find any solution by using the Windows.Q: ASP.NET Core (5.2) Custom ModelBinder I've built a model binder for an API that is consuming a Datatable. The model binder process works great, but the issue is that the model binder is tied to the DataTable format, which makes the model binder a bit useless for my application. So I decided to create my own custom model binder. The problem is that the model binder is tied to the System.Web.UI.WebControls namespace. So I can't actually create my own model binder. My question is: Is there a way to create a model binder that is independent of the 'UI' model binder? A: The solution you want is Custom ModelBinders. Start by creating a custom IModelBinder: public class CustomBinder : IModelBinder where TModel : class { public Task BindModelAsync(Microsoft.AspNetCore.Mvc.ModelBindingContext bindingContext) { // Do stuff } } And register it in ConfigureServices: services.AddMvc().AddM
