[Javascript]A British Colonial Home in Nairobi, Kenya Nairobi, also referred to as the City of Mosquitoes, is Kenya's capital and the largest city in the country. Nairobi is located at 15th parallel north latitude and 36th meridian east longitude which makes it almost landlocked. The city is known for its warm and gentle African climate, but it has also been developing the fastest rate of urbanization in Kenya. Nairobi is the largest city in East and Central Africa and the second largest city in the African continent. The population is estimated at 4,927,000 and the city proper has an area of 185 km² with an average population density of 5,959 people per km². Nairobi was founded in the early 1900s and became a British colonial settlement from 1901 to 1963. After the year of 1963, the colonialists who had founded the city returned back to Britain and Kenya was governed under the British rule until 1964. Kenya became independent in 1963 and independence was officially marked in December 1963. But the people were saying that it was not independence for them as they still felt colonial. Kenyan independence was marked in 1964. Nairobi is a major business and commercial city in Kenya and supports the largest concentration of business, trade and industry. It is one of the most developed cities in the East and Central Africa region. Nairobi is a dynamic city with an increasing economy, trade and commerce. Nairobi is one of the most visited cities in Kenya and is known as the White City because of all the white buildings that can be seen all over the city. Nairobi is a modern, busy city with beautiful buildings and an extensive infrastructure. Nairobi is made of mazes of dusty streets, colonnaded buildings, crowded markets, and busy traffic. However, the best feature of Nairobi is the fact that it has a pleasant and peaceful climate. Nairobi is a diverse city but most people visit it for business or tourism. Nairobi boasts of excellent attractions, cultural institutions and the buildings which are the legacy of a glorious past and a history of architectural and other achievements. In fact, Nairobi is considered to be Africa's biggest tourist destination and is known as Africa's premier tourist attraction. In Kenya, Nairobi is a city that is located on a hill and is surrounded by a flood plain. The area which is known as
